

Study Guide - Test #6

Important Names

Clara Barton - the first woman to go onto a battlefield in the United States to nurse the wounded soldiers; later, she set up the American Red Cross.

Red Cross - a society organized to help the wounded and homeless during wars and such disasters as floods, earthquakes, and hurricanes.

Ulysses S. Grant - the winning commander of all the Union armies during the last part of the Civil War.

Julia Dent - General Grant's wife

Louisa May Alcott - a famous writer of Little Women and other children's books

Important Words

surrender - to give up

publisher - a company that prepares and prints books and magazines

Important Places

Oxford, Massachusetts - the town in which Clara Barton was born

Appomattox, Virginia - the town in which General Lee surrendered to General Grant

1. Clara's family teaching her how to do things was all a part of God's plan.
2. Clara had to ride a horse to get to the wounded soldiers in the battle.
3. She would know how the soldiers moved and could stay safe and easily find wounded soldiers.
4. She had to cook for the wounded soldiers.
5. Taking care of David helped her know how to help the wounded soldiers.
6. The soldiers gave Clara the nickname the "Angel of the Battlefield."
7. Clara started the American Red Cross.

8. Jefferson Davis was the President of the Confederate States of America.
9. Abraham Lincoln was the President of the United States of America during the Civil War.
10. General Grant was the Commander of the Union Armies during the Civil War.
11. General Lee was the General of the Confederate Armies.
12. John Wilkes Booth shot and killed Abraham Lincoln.
13. The Southern states during the Civil War were called the Confederate States.
14. The Civil War lasted from 1861 to 1865 (4 years).
15. The Northern states during the Civil War were called the Union.
16. Springfield, Illinois was the hometown of Abraham Lincoln.
17. Washington, D.C. is the capital of the United State.

18. Arlington, Virginia was the hometown of Robert E. Lee before the Civil War.
19. The Alcott family taught us how to be kind to others, to put others first, and there are always people who need more than you that you can give to.
20. Louisa May Alcott's most popular book was Little Women.
21. The March family was really the Alcott family.
22. Her first book about boys was Little Men.